Manifesto

The problem. The break. The promise.

01

There are 33 million small businesses in the United States.

Most of them are completely invisible online.

Not because they do not care. Not because they do not know it matters. But because the system that was supposed to help them was designed for someone else entirely — for companies with marketing budgets, dedicated teams, and time to manage an agency relationship.

"The agency wanted $2,500 a month. My shop clears about $6,000. I just laughed and walked out."

— Marcus, barbershop owner, Austin TX

The old model is broken.

- Too expensive. Agencies charge $1,500 to $5,000 a month. For a local barbershop or salon averaging $5,000 to $8,000 monthly revenue, that is half their margin — before rent and payroll.
- Too slow. Briefings, revisions, approvals, more revisions. A post about a Tuesday promotion gets approved on Thursday. The moment is gone.
- Too complex. The business owner becomes a part-time marketing manager. Approving every caption, chasing every deliverable, managing a relationship they never wanted.
- Too generic. The agency serves 40 clients. Yours is one of them. The content feels like it was built for nobody — because it was.

Then AI changed everything.

In 2024, the quality of AI-generated content crossed a threshold. Text that reads like a human wrote it. Images that look professionally designed. Workflows that run without anyone pushing them.

For the first time, a small business in São Paulo or Recife could have the same quality of content as a brand with a full marketing team — at a fraction of the cost, with zero management overhead.

Our promise.

Your brand stays active, every week, every month — without you lifting a finger.

Your content sounds like you, because we learn your voice before writing a single word.

Your leads get answered in seconds, not hours — by an AI that knows your business.

Your investment makes sense, less than a part-time employee, more impact than a full agency.

No Agency. Because you never needed one.

Brand Story

Origin, insight and where we are going.

02

Origin — A gap nobody was closing.

No Agency was born from a simple observation: the gap between what small businesses need and what the market offers them has never been bigger.

Two founders — one with a background in marketing, one in technology — kept seeing the same pattern. Business owners spending Sunday nights trying to post something, anything, just to keep the profile alive. Good businesses with invisible brands.

The insight — Make agencies irrelevant.

The founding team did not set out to build a cheaper agency. That approach had been tried — discount services that delivered discount results.

The breakthrough: the majority of a small business content needs are deeply predictable. A salon posts about treatments, promotions, and results. A clinic posts about health and trust. With a thorough onboarding — the DNA Brief — an AI generates a full month of on-brand content in minutes. The human role shifts from creation to curation. From 40 hours a month to 15 minutes.

The journey.

Year	Quarter	Milestone
2024	Q3	Concept validated with 8 small business owners. 100% could not afford traditional agencies.
2024	Q4	First DNA Brief developed. Beta test: zero content rejections in month 2.
2025	Q1	Full automation built. Time per client drops to under 20 minutes per month.
2025	Q4	No Agency brand officially launched. 50-client target set for year one.
2026	Q2	Series A preparation. Playbook for 100+ clients documented.

33M

small businesses in the United States. < 8% post consistently on social media. That is the market.

Brand Identity

Logo, colors, typography, tone of voice.

03

The logo system.

The mark combines a dot cluster icon — referencing social networks, automation, and reach — with a bold/light wordmark and a spaced tagline. The single red dot in the cluster represents the client: the one brand at the center of everything.

On white

On cream

On black

Icon-only usage.

The dot cluster can be used alone when the brand name is established in context — social media avatar, app icon, favicon. Minimum size: 32×32px digital, 8mm print.

The icon retains perfect legibility at all sizes above 16px. At 16px (favicon), only the core cluster is rendered without the ring dots.

Color palette.

Four colors. Each with a clear, non-negotiable role. The palette is intentionally restrained — restraint communicates confidence.

Typography.

One typeface. Three weights. Poppins is geometric, clean, and exceptionally legible at all sizes. It carries the same confident-but-approachable tone as the brand itself.

Brand Manual

Usage rules, dos and do-nots.

04

Logo usage rules.

Maintain clear space of at least 1× the icon height around the full logo.

Use cream or white backgrounds as the primary application.

Use the reversed (white) version on dark backgrounds only.

Scale proportionally — never stretch or compress the mark.

Use the icon alone when the brand is established in context.

Place the logo on a busy photographic background.

Recolor the icon — Signal Red #D64045 is the only acceptable accent.

Apply drop shadows, gradients, or effects to the logo mark.

Rotate or skew any element of the logo system.

Use any typeface other than Poppins in lockups with the wordmark.

Minimum sizes.

Application	Full logo min.	Icon only min.
Print — business card, flyer	28mm width	8mm
Digital — web, email	120px width	32×32px
Social media avatar	Icon only	400×400px
Favicon / app icon	Icon only	32×32px

Brand voice — writing principles.

1. Lead with the benefit, not the feature.

"Your feed stays active while you focus on your business" — not "Our AI generates 30 posts per month."

2. Use short sentences for impact.

Long sentences dilute force. When making a strong point, one sentence is enough.

3. Name the enemy — not a person, but a system.

"The old model was expensive, slow, and built for bigger brands. Not for you."

4. Write to one person.

"You" is the most powerful word. Write to the owner checking their phone at 11pm, exhausted.

5. Open with the pain, then offer the solution.

Do not lead with the pitch. Show that we understand before we explain what we do.

"For small business owners who need a consistent digital presence but cannot afford a traditional agency, No Agency is the AI-powered platform that creates, publishes, and manages their social media automatically — so they can focus on running their business."
